NORTHFIELD SEMINARY STARTS ITS FIFTY-FIRST YEAR AT THIS TIME

Largest Number of Registrations in Many Years and Many Changes in the Faculty, Including New Principal

MISS MYRA WILSON
New Principal of Northfield Seminary

Northfield Seminary opened on Wednesday for its fifty-first year. This was registration day and about 600 were registered, the largest number for many years.

This is also the beginning of the new principalship. Miss Myra Wilson has been here some time making herself familiar with the work. She will live at The Northfield this year. On Thursday she presided at the opening chapel service. Thursday was also the day for entrance examinations for new students. Today the schedules for the 600 students were made out and tomorrow the classes assemble. The new students reception under the auspices of the Northfield Seminary Church Union is Saturday evening at which the faculty will also be present.

Dr. Frank L. Duley who has been acting principal of the seminary the past three years, resumes his former position as the head of the history department.

Miss Jeanette Daboll succeeds Miss Annie L. Thompson, retired, as head of the department of mathematics and is also assistant principal. Miss Ethel Moody has returned from a six months' leave of absence and is at Gould hall.

The new members of the faculty this year are Miss Adelaide Baumer of New Rochelle, N. Y., who is director of physical education, a graduate of Skidmore college and will live at Holton hall. Miss Barbara Chase will teach English and live at Moore cottage. Miss Ruth Oxreider of China succeeds Miss Goulding in the English department and is a graduate of Denison university.

Miss Helen Bush is head of Moore cottage. Miss Victoria Freeman, sister of Miss Eva Freeman, teaches English and will live at the Northfield Hotel with her mother from Easton, Pa. Miss Erma Reynolds, recent dean of women at Colby college, is head of the French department. Miss Mary L. Throop of Lakeside, Ct., graduate of the Yale School of Music, teaches music.

Members of last year's faculty who are not returning are Miss Elizabeth Jaderquist, teacher of French, who remains at her home in California; Miss Luise Bube, teacher of music, who was married in Boston last Monday; Miss Matilda P. Goulding, whose health requires her to remain at home in Rutland, Vt.; Miss Maud Landes, who will be with her people in North Carolina this year; Miss Frances McKimmon of the English department has a fellow ship at Brown university where she will study; Miss Theodora Dennison, teacher of Latin, teaches elsewhere; Miss Elizabeth Jennings, teacher of French is to be married; Miss Edith Hart, teacher of history; Miss Isabella Thompson, librarian's assistant, is not sufficiently well to return; Miss Phoebe Prowse of the department of physical education teaches near her home in Canada; Miss Grace Pixley is matron at Moore cottage.

William Clarence Fellows Died Monday Morning

William Clarence Fellows died Monday morning at the Gardner hospital following an operation for gallstones. He was born in Rumney, N. H., Oct. 20, 1861 and came to Northfield when a young man. For about twelve years he worked in the New Home Sewing machine factory at Orange and for seventeen years he was foreman of construction for the New England Telephone Co. During this time and since he has carried on his farm on the mountain with the help of his family.

He married Ada Holland, who survives him with nine children, three daughters and six sons and fourteen grandchildren.

The funeral was held from his late home on Wednesday afternoon and the body was taken to Orange for burial.

Harmony lodge of which he was a member rendered the commitment service at the grave.

Aviation Ball to Have Goodnow's Singing Orchestra Complete

Goodnow's Singing Orchestra with its full strength of six men, has been secured for the Aviation Ball in the Northfield town hall on the evening of October 4th next. They promise some new and original aviation musical features and altogether this event will be unique. It is expected that many visitors to the field on this first opening day will remain for the dance and that we will have such a throng for this social event as to crowd the floor to capacity. All profits, if any, are to be expended in the further development and improvement of our airport.

Red Cross Meeting

NORTHFIELD HISTORICAL SOCIETY HOLDS REGULAR ANNUAL MEETING

Harry J. Lasher Gives Interesting Talk on Indian Sites and Relics That Have Been Unearthed in this Vicinity

The annual meeting of the Northfield Historical society was held Tuesday evening, Sept. 3, in Alexander hall. The directors elected for the ensuing year were A. P. Pitt, Dr. Florence A. Colton, L. R. Smith, L. R. Alexander, A. G. Moody, Mrs. F. B. Caldwell, Mrs. E. F. Howard, Miss Daisy Holton, Mrs. Frank Montague.

A most helpful and interesting talk on Indian Sites was given by Harry J. Lasher of Hinsdale, a member of the society. Mr. Lasher made his address more graphic by using a map on which were charted all the sites of which he spoke, beginning at the state line and following the Connecticut River down to the Ware Farm, a stretch about five and one half miles long. The first site mentioned was one along the bluff in the rear of Jordan's Filling station. In Pochaug meadow were more. On the bluff overlooking Wanamaker lake was an Indian burying ground. Ceremonial stones have been found on the late George Barber farm, in Winchester. These stones were made of soapstone very highly polished. Council Rock was located where today the state road passes Joseph Field's house. Four villages were located in what is now Bennett's Meadow. Upon crossing the Bennett Meadow bridge one passes a knoll, on top of which was a famous rendezvous of King Philip. Villages and graneries have been found near Mt. Hermon. Also, nearby, workshops of a tribe of Indians highly skilled in the art of arrow-making have been discovered.

On the Millers Falls road we find the Sand Dunes, where were located the biggest Councils in the Connecticut Valley that have been discovered thus far. Graneries, fireplaces, pottery ovens have been found in these dunes. On the bank of the Connecticut river a large semicircular fire place was located, from which a great number of firestones were taken, some still showing evidences of charcoal upon them. In the sand dunes chips of many rare stones have been gathered in the years past, some so ancient that they show a considerable amount of corrosion giving evidence of probably nearly a thousand years for some of the oldest and about three hundred years for the newer ones. Two large pottery ovens were found in this region also. Specimens of this were have been collected, some of which were decorated very artistically. Mr. Morehead, government authority on this subject, says there were three main designs for pottery decoration used by the Indians in this Connecticut Valley.

Dr. J. East Harrison Gave

Interesting Address Last Sunday

Dr. J. East Harrison was the speaker at the Congregational church Sunday evening. He gave his experiences of his fifty years in the ministry. First he told how he was converted, and he knew, as he knows now, that his life was changed. He told how he was definitely called to the ministry and how obstacles one by one that hindered his obeying that call were removed. He told also how God gave messages to his lips to speak that he had not dreamed of saying, and the results of those prayers. In conclusion he told how he was more confident today after fifty years of service in the ministry of the power of prayer and the wonderful ways God can use a life that is entirely given to His service.

Funeral of John Ellis Nye

On Saturday Last

The funeral of John Ellis Nye was held at his Main street home on Saturday afternoon. Rev. Francis Wayland Pattison of the Trinitarian Congregational church officiated. Friends filled the spacious rooms and members of Harmony lodge, A. F. & A. M. and Northfield chapter, O. E. S., occupied the broad piazza. The casket was literally banked with a profusion of beautiful flowers, showing the love and esteem he was regarded in the town. The interment was in the family lot in Central cemetery. Members of Harmony lodge acted as bearers.

"Words and Music" Coming to Garden Theatre, Greenfield

A musical revue with a college setting which projects audibly the verve and sparkle of campus life, is the vehicle for Lois Moran's debut in a Fox Movietone singing, dancing and talking screen role. The picture is "Words and Music." Talented youngsters from campuses and dancing schools, together with noted entertainers from the legitimate stage, form the supporting cast.

Eight song numbers are included. They range from snappy dance tunes to haunting love ballads. William Kernell, Harlan Thompson, Dave Stamper and Con Conrad, Sidney D. Mitchell and Archie Gottler wrote the songs. All are famous "Tin Pan Alley" boys.

"Words and Music" will be heard and seen Sunday at the Garden theatre, Greenfield.

Turners Falls

Plotkin Interests Fixing Up Grand Trunk Hotel

The Plotkin Interests of Athol, Orange and Turners Falls recently purchased and have been modernizing and improving the Grand Trunk Hotel property in Turners Falls. An additional contract has been awarded to Bloom & Caplan who have remodeled the upper stories and are now erecting new window fronts the entire length on the Avenue A side. Their new fronts will bring the property in line with the other blocks on the avenue and do away with the stone step entrances making this old familiar land mark up to date.

Joseph C. Pula of Turners Falls and Fay Phelps of Millers Falls have accepted positions with the General Electric company at Pittsfield.

The bazaar of the Our Lady of Czenstochowa church which was scheduled to close Saturday evening will be concluded next Saturday. Postponement was necessary because of the storm late last Saturday. The boxing and wrestling attractions will take place this week Saturday.

Karl Mack, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the House of Providence hospital in Holyoke, left the hospital for the home of his aunt on Nonotuck street where he will remain a few days before returning to his home on Thir street here.

Miss Maxine Grogan of Worcester avenue returned to her duties at the New England Box Co. office in Greenfield after spending a two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Little, former residents of this town, are spending a few days here as the guests of Edward Buzzell of Montague City. Mr. and Mrs. Little left here more than 40 years ago and are now making their home in Iowa.

Charles A. Farwell, who has been spending several months here since returning from South America, has obtained a position in the engineering office of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. He started his new duties and will be located at the South Station, Boston.

Herbert Egger, clerk at the local postoffice, has returned to his duties after a two weeks' vacation.

Sigmund Kaweck and Jacob Stotz left for Canada where they will spend a week's vacation.

The Misses Mary Meyer, Esther Herter, Anna King and Elizabeth Sauter left for Boston where they will spend a week's vacation. They will be joined by Miss Margaret Berard on Wednesday.

Miss Anna Grogan has returned to her duties in the government offices in Washington, D. C., after spending three weeks' vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grogan of Worcester avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram R. Farnsworth of Muskegon, Mich., and Prof. and Mrs. Paul Farnsworth and their son of Palo Alto, Calif., have been visiting relatives in town for a few days. Prof. Farnsworth is a member of the Leland-Stanford university and was sent east to represent his college at a conference held at Yale university. Mrs. Alice Farnsworth and Mrs. Ellen March of Prospect street are the great-grandmothers of the Farnsworths and the family gathering brought together four generations on both sides.

Last Saturday's Electrical Storm a Severe One

The severest electrical storm of the year visited Turners Falls late Saturday afternoon. The greatest damage was done at the home of Mrs. Mary Savage on the Montague road, where a one-car wooden garage and a large wagonshed were completely wrecked by a freak wind. No damage was done to the house or to any neighboring house or property. The two buildings belonging to the Savage home were flattened to the ground. A fifty-foot maple tree and a large apple tree were torn up by their roots, near the Savage home.

Officials of the Turners Falls Power and Electric company said the storm had caused but one break in their lines, on the Montague City road. No inconvenience was caused by the break. The Turners Falls fire alarm system was out of order for about an hour, following the blowing out of a fuse. A single blast of the alarm at a few minutes after four o'clock gave audible proof that the system had been struck by lightning. A tree near Second street and L street was said to have been struck during the storm.

Millers Falls

Mr. and Mrs. William Howe Entertain on Seventh Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Howe of South Prospect street entertained a few of their friends at their home on Saturday evening in honor of their seventh wedding anniversary. During the evening the guests enjoyed musical selections and readings given by some of those present. The hostess served a very dainty luncheon to her guests. Mr. and Mrs. Howe received many presents.

Effects of the Severe Electrical Storm on Saturday

During the severe electrical storm of last Saturday afternoon, lightning struck the chimney on the residence of William E. Craig on West Main, demolishing the chimney and tearing a hole in the roof, ripping off some of the plastering. Some of the bricks from the falling chimney crashed through the windows of the residence of David H. Flynn on the adjoining lot. Fortunately no one was at the home at the time. Henry E. Foote of Lyman street who was working on an auto nearby was knocked down for by the bolt and rendered unconscious, for about half an hour. During the storm a flood of water at the end of the bridge raised havoc with cars as it splashed very high when machines ran into it.

Greenfield

Greenfield Kiwanis club resumed activities Wednesday after the summer vacation with a dinner meeting in the Mansion House. President James D. Abercrombie presided and Willis H. Wellesbrod, former president, gave a report of the Milwaukee convention. Reports on the summer outing were given by L. B. Fortin, G. W. Pillsbury and Ivan C. Minott, and a short report was given on Boy Scout work. Frederick H. Payne, president of the Greenfield Tap & Die Corp., was the guest speaker. Many of the members have already made reservations and will attend the N. E. District convention to be held at Poland Springs, South Poland, Me., on Sept. 23 to 25.

Chapter Masons of this state, Vermont and New Hampshire held a clambake at Forest Lake, Winchester, N. H., Wednesday, with dinner at 3:30 o'clock. The sponsors are officers of Franklin Royal Arch chapter of Greenfield and chapters in Athol, Orange, Mass., and Keene, Claremont, Peterboro, N. H., Brattleboro, Chester, and Springfield, Vt.

The fall program of Lieut. John J. Galvin post, American Legion, will include a minstrel show Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Lawler theater, Nov. 13 and 14 for the benefit of the Legion Drum corps.

The September meeting of Franklin District Medical society was held on Wednesday morning in the Weldon hotel. The program included a talk by Dr. A. W. Wright of Northfield on the subject "Some Observations and Report of a Case of Malta Fever," and Dr. M. M. Brown of North Adams spoke on "The Four Cardinal Principles of Health." A report of the annual meeting of the A. M. A. at Portland was given by Dr. H. G. Stetson of Greenfield.

Church and Inn Added to Model Exposition Village

TWO old colonial New England structures, one a church dating back nearly 100 years, and the other, an inn of even more ancient lineage, are being erected on the grounds of the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., this summer and will be dedicated at the 13th annual fall Exposition from Sept. 15 to 21 inclusive as part of the plan fostered by Mrs. James J. Storrow of Boston to recreate an old New England Village, perpetuating for all time that type of architecture so familiar and so closely associated with New England regional history.

The church comes from the village of Webster in the town of Salisbury, N. H. The inn, a rambling old structure and a Central Massachusetts landmark for more than a century, comes from the town of North Brookfield. These, together with the Gilbert house, first built in West Brookfield in 1794 and re-erected on the Exposition grounds in 1926, and the Atkinson store, built about 1795 by Capt. John Atkinson of Prescott, a soldier under Washington, and reconstructed in 1928, are the nucleus of the village which eventually will comprise a mansion, schoolhouse, lawyer's office and perhaps one or two other typical structures of their period.

Like a vast majority of these early New England buildings all have suffered vicissitudes. They have been "remodelled" and "improved" by their owners from time to time. Fireplaces have been bricked up. Great rooms have been partitioned off into smaller cubicles. Hideous wallpaper has been used to cover up old panelling and beautiful craftsmanship of the wood carvers art. But fortunately in the buildings selected for the Home Department village group at the Exposition, these things merely have been hidden and not destroyed. Experts have gone over each building carefully, and under their supervision the structures have been torn down, transported piece by piece from their original locations and on the Exposition grounds are to be rebuilt in their original form of original timbers. In this guise they will be presented to the thousands of Exposition visitors and the additional thousands of annual New England tourists. It is the present plan to complete the New England village on the Exposition grounds by early summer of 1930, and to make it one of the high spots of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary and the mecca for the hordes of tourists who will come to this section next year.

Church and inn will set on concrete foundations. Above the concrete will be the original granite. And a double purpose will be fulfilled under Mrs. Storrow's plan. Not only will the buildings of the village have their original simplicity, but it will be shown also how by a few deft touches they can be made to meet modern living conditions. Through this object lesson it is the hope that many old homes throughout New England now falling into disuse and decay may be saved and restored to their former high estate.

Brattleboro, Vt.

ALL SET FOR THE VALLEY FAIR AT BRAT.

Although the 44th annual Valley Fair in Brattleboro is more than a week away, plans for the event are proceeding with rapidity, and indications now are that the two days' program will be one of the most comprehensive and complete in Valley Fair history. The fair will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 24 and 25, with a night show on the 23rd.

Activities on the part of officials during the week ending today comprised the completion of the horse show ring in front of the west part of the grandstand and the closing of contracts for the most spectacular fireworks exhibition ever presented in this locality and several feature vaudeville acts. The fireworks program published in the premium lists contains in addition to many of the usual set pieces, rockets and bombs, a number of special features of note, as follows:

The Battle—This will consist of two battleships in action, showing the cannons etc., doing their bit. This feature is one of the most spectacular set pieces ever produced.

The Tonerville Trolley—An exact replica of the famous trolley car which has been so successfully cartooned in the daily papers. It is not only amusing to look at, but will bring to mind many thoughts of the "old home town" and also bring out the developments in transportation which have taken place in the last decade.

The New Ford—Will show how Henry made a lady out of Lizzie and certainly will prove a knockout to Ford owners.

Where Da Ya Works, John—This is a brand new feature and was designed after much careful study. It depicts the old-fashioned hand-car being manipulated by laborers in the old-fashioned pumping way. It is something new in fireworks and should prove a very pleasing spectacle.

The Spirit of 1880—A feature that will show the old-fashioned bicycle with the big wheel and little wheel, which presents a beautiful spectacle as it races across the field with one of the old timers riding it.

The Flight of the Yellow Bird—Special feature showing the Yellow Bird in flight from Old Orchard to Spain.

Mrs. Staples Found Asphyxiated In Her Home

When Charles G. Staples, cashier of the Vermont People National bank, of Brattleboro, Vt., returned home from his work late Tuesday afternoon he found his wife dead in the bathroom with the gas turned on. Dr. Grace Burnett-Crowell, who was called immediately, thought that Mrs. Staples had been dead for some time. Mrs. Staples was about 60 years old. She was a graduate of Brattleboro High school and was a member of the Brattleboro Woman's club. She had been in ill health for some time. Besides her husband she leaves a son, Harold Staples, a lawyer in Providence.

R. I., and a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Kennedy of Biddeford, Me.

George—"Won't you have a piece of pie?"

Anna—"Really, I've eaten so much—is it compulsory?"

George—"No, it's apple and pretty good too."

Mary—"What do you call a man who drives a car?"

Charles—"It depends on how close he comes to me."

Henry—"Your engine is coughing badly."

Ford—"Shouldn't wonder. I had its muffler o' flast night."

Editorial

"AND THAT WAS LONG BEFORE COLUMBUS LANDED OVER HERE"

It will be remembered that an Irishman (Cornelius Merry) was among the first settlers of Northfield. Most of what is now Hinsdale, New Hampshire, was then included in our town limits and Merry's place was the meadow across from the well known Homestead. And now a writer in the New York Times has collated the facts anent the discovery and even settlement of America by the Irish long before the time of the Norsemen, let alone Columbus.

The writer states that in the Vatican at Rome, are maps and records that show conclusively that the Irish Bishop, St. Brendan, the Navigator, went out to evangelize the countries of the West and that he visited America in the sixth century, sailing down the coast and stopping at points in Nova Scotia, New England, New York and Delaware. According to the legendary accounts of his travels he found a terrestrial paradise on what he considered a great island in the Atlantic. This legend was current up to the time of Columbus and long after and many concluded that the newly discovered America was St. Brendan's island found anew. These "Voyages of St. Brendan" were translated into many languages and were known more or less throughout Europe. Whitehall, the historian, believed that Ireland was a part of the lost continent of Atlantis and this opinion is strengthened by the old Irish tradition that a great part of Ireland was swallowed up by the sea.

It is said that records tell us that the earliest name of America was Ireland-it-mikla (Greater Ireland). It was the opinion of Prof. Rafn of Copenhagen that this Ireland was the country situated to the south of Chesapeake Bay, including North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. He states in his "American Antiquities" that people speaking the Irish language were found in Florida as far back as the eighth century. Shawanese Indians used to say that Florida was once inhabited by white men. There are many Celtic words in the language of the Darien Indians.

Among a host of other corroborative facts are details of voyages made from Iceland, as well as Ireland, by Irishmen; including that of Arl Marson, great grandson of O'Carroll the King of Dublin, who was shipwrecked on the coast of Florida in 983 A. D., more than five hundred years before Columbus arrived in the West Indies. And so on and so forth. Those who are interested further in the matter can find the entire article in the New York Sunday Times of September 8, 1929.

The thought that comes to us is, that in these latter days, we are learning more of the past as well as of the present than our very recent ancestors ever dreamed about; and, it may well be, that this accumulation of knowledge is going to enlighten the coming generations, so that they will be able to pierce into the future in ways that are impossible to us at the present time. Cheerio.

(From Springfield Union of Wednesday, Sept. 11)

NORTHFIELD

LEGLESS VETERAN HELPS BUILD PORT

Northfield Air Field Is Slated to Open October 4

Warren Whitman lost both legs in the Argonne but he can drive a car. He was a sergeant of artillery in the World War and accustomed to direct men. On the big meadow field at Northfield, Mass., that is being developed into a landing field for planes (public opening announced for Oct. 4 and 5) they load the running boards of Warren's car with sods or other debris and he runs it over to the place where it is needed. Just so with the boys and girls, they are all helping in their small way, as are some of the older men who cannot be expected to do heavy work. Of course, a goodly portion of the men of the village are giving vigorous assistance, as they can find time in the early evenings or when they are not at their regular jobs. And several of the ladies are busy with the wind cone and other matters that come within their jurisdiction.

Northfield, as in times past, is setting a fine example of what can be done by community effort in thus setting up their own airport (with the Connecticut River on one margin it will also be adapted for amphibians and sea planes) without waiting for the slow process of capitalistic development. It is true that Nature has been kind to them in preparing a field that needs but comparatively small effort to lick into shape but, even at that, as many will realize, it takes a lot more than just a good field to make a going airport.

The importance of marked and safe landing places for planes (even if not at first quite developed to the point where they can be truthfully termed airports) throughout New England, is recognized by everybody at all interested in aviation. It might be worth while for other communities in New England who are still waiting for outside assistance before going ahead with their landing fields to send a delegation to Northfield and check up on what the home folks in this little community are doing to help along the great industry of the air.

Judge (to prisoner)—"Are you married?"

Prisoner—"No judge, that scar comes from being kicked by a mule."

Selected Recipes

SMALL ORANGE DISHES

Do you wish to have your name on "Betty Barclay's" mailing list for recipe booklets. If so, write her, 1861 East Tioga Street, Philadelphia, Pa. A postal will do. Now that the market is so filled with small oranges at such a reasonable price, the following dainties are in order:

TULIP DESSERT

4 small oranges
1/2 cup white grapes
1/2 cup nut meats
1 cup scalded milk
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Cut the top from oranges, and remove pulp. Cut orange peel into four segments; shape, and bend outward a little, to simulate a tulip. Mix cornstarch and sugar, and stir into hot milk. Cook ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour onto well-beaten egg yolk; return to double boiler, and cook one minute; then cool. Mix with orange pulp, grapes, seeded and skinned, and nut meats. Fill orange skins, and serve in long-stemmed sherbet glasses; garnish with fresh green leaves.

PUFF-BALL ORANGES

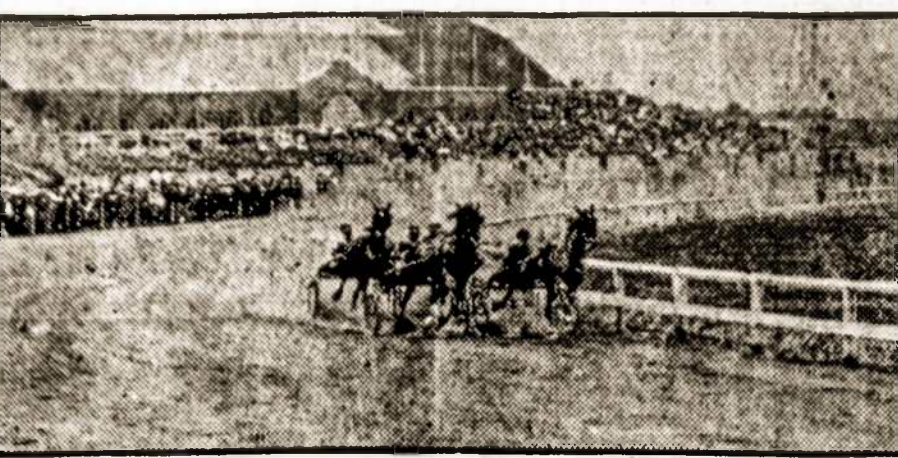

1 egg white
1/2 cup powdered sugar
4 oranges
Peel small oranges, removing white membrane with outer skin. Beat egg white, slightly, using wire whisk; add sugar, gradually, and continue beating until meringue is stiff and will hold its shape. Thrust a long, slender wire skewer through the center of each orange; frost them completely with the meringue and suspend them, by the skewers, across a narrow pan, and bake twelve minutes in a slow oven, being careful not to let them brown. Twist skewers gently to remove them. These oranges make a pretty dessert or supper dish.

POOR SOLOMON

"Mother," said little Willie, "I don't think Solomon was as rich as they say he was."
"Why, my dear, what could have put that into your head?"
"Why, the Bible says he slept with his fathers, and I think if he had been so very rich, he would have had a bed of his own."

She was only a song writer's daughter, but she didn't know the meaning of the word "refrain."

Record Heavy Entry List For Eastern States Harness Meet

NEW ENGLAND'S fastest half mile track on the Eastern States Exposition grounds at Springfield, Mass., will be the magnet for light harness race followers for the four-day fall meet that will open Exposition week from Sept. 15 to 21 inclusive. An exceptional list of entries assures keen competition for the big fields that will be sent away for the four days of racing on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 16, 17, 18 and 19.

FRANKLIN, SS. PROBATE COURT

Case 23630
To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Francis Schell, late of New York City in the state of New York, deceased,

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said court, by Mary Stewart Schell and Nicholas P. Ryder, both of said New York City, with certain papers purporting to be copies of the last will and testament of said deceased, and of the probate thereof in said state of New York duly authenticated, representing that at the time of his death, said deceased had estate in said County of Franklin, on which said will may operate, and praying that a copy of said will may be filed and recorded in the Registry of Probate of said County of Franklin, and letters testamentary thereon granted to them, two of the executors therein named, without giving sureties on their official bonds; the other executor named in said will declining to serve:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Greenfield, in said County of Franklin, on the third Tuesday of October A. D. 1929, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Northfield Press, a newspaper published in Northfield in said County of Franklin, the first publication to be thirty days, at least, before said court. Witness, FRANCIS NIMS THOMPSON, Esquire, Judge of said court, this fourth day of September in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.

First Congregational Church Services Resumed

Services at the First Congregational church were resumed last Sunday, after having been omitted for the past month, during which time the church exterior and interior has been completely renovated. The outside has been painted, while the interior has been re-decorated. New electric lights and fixtures were installed, and new carpeting laid. The entire renovating is indeed noticeable, adding much to the appearance of the church.

Sad Double Drowning Accident Last Week

Walter Brooks, 46, of this town is believed to have lost his life in Round pond, Pisgah, in the town of Winchester, about three miles from here last Thursday evening and at the same time his companion, Frank Young, 62, of Hinsdale, died of heart failure. The two men were on a fishing trip.

The body of Young was found floating in the pond Sunday by Thomas O'Connell, member of a party of local young men who went to the pond in search, following a report by Oscar H. Cooper and son, Oscar, Jr., that the Cooper's had found an empty boat with oars floating near-by on Saturday afternoon.

Just how the double tragedy happened is not known, neither is it known just when it happened, but evidence indicates that the time was about 7:30 o'clock on Thursday night, the evening of the day on which they started on their trip. At that hour Mrs. John Dickinson of Ashuelot, N. H., who was at her cottage on a pond which is a continuation of Round pond heard a yell which she recognized as that of Brooks. Mr. Young's watch stopped at 7:40.

Further indication that the tragedy happened Thursday night is found in the fact that most of the food which the two took with them Thursday had not been touched. The food was in a sack which they planned to occupy.

Mr. Cooper and his son went to the woods near the pond Saturday to hunt bees and saw the empty boat and the oars floating near. The younger Cooper swam out to it and found that it contained Mr. Brooks' trousers and a few hopped pout. They said nothing about their discovery as they thought some trouble of some kind might have developed and they did not want to be the ones to report it, but later they changed their minds and reported on Sunday morning whereupon a party was organized to search for the bodies.

When the party arrived at the pond they found Mr. Young's body floating. A search for Mr. Brooks' body was made but without success. The pond was being dragged at this writing on Monday.

The body of Mr. Young was taken across the pond in a row boat and then carried about a mile along a wood road to an automobile, thence to the undertaking room of John M. Lamb by permission of Selectman Edward Quarters of Winchester.

An autopsy completed at midnight Sunday night by Medical Examiner Arthur F. Weston of Keene revealed that Mr. Young had died of heart failure and had not drowned as was first believed. No water was found in his lungs. Dr. Watson was assisted by Dr. Hubbard of Gilsun, post mortem examiner.

The theory of the accident that is accepted by relatives of Mr. Young is that the two were fishing when Brooks decided to take a swim. He removed his trousers and it is thought he fell in, not having removed the rest of his clothing. It is believed that Mr. Young in the excitement had a heart attack and fell out of the boat. Mr. Brooks may have tried to save his companion and to have lost sight of the boat in the darkness.

Some are of the opinion that Mr. Young had his attack and fell out of the boat first and that Mr. Brooks then removed his trousers and jumped into the water to rescue him.

Mr. Young was born in Canada on July 18, 1867, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young. He moved to this town when a young man and married Miss Margaret Mann, July 2, 1889. Her death occurred six years ago. Recently he had been employed at the West Swazey Woolen mills.

He leaves two daughters, Florence, wife of P. L. O'Connor, a local printer, and Henrietta, wife of George E. Newman of Hinsdale and one son, Paul of this town. He leaves three brothers, Peter of West Swazey, Lawrence of Haverhill, Mass., and Arthur of Hinsdale, also one sister, Mrs. David Paquin of Hinsdale and eight grandchildren.

The funeral of Mr. Young was held in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church this week Tuesday morning at 9:30. Rev. D. S. Duffy officiated. Interment took place in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Brooks, employed as a cutter at the White-Washburn Paper Co. mill, lived with his sister, Mrs. Charles Kelley of this town. He formerly was a well-known ball player, being at one time a member of the Stafford Springs, Conn. team. He also played on the Brattleboro Y. M. C. A. team some years ago while an employee of the E. L. Hildreth and Co.'s printing office in Brattleboro.

Born in Hartford, Conn., March 25 1883, he was a son of Arthur J. and Addie Brooks. He attended Hinsdale high school. He never married. Besides his parents and sister, Mrs. Kelley he leaves one brother, Winfield Brooks, and a sister, Eva, wife of Fred Varno of this town, and one half brother, Bert Caldwell of Newington, Conn. He was a member of the local fire department.

HE WASN'T SO DUMB
Visiting day here at the asylum. Here in one corner we see an inmate who believes himself to be an artist. The fellow is daubing away at an empty canvas with a dry brush. Presently our curiosity is too much. Too humor the man, too, we asked him what the picture represented.
"The picture," said the looney, "is one in which the Israelites are being pursued through the Red Sea."
"Where is the Red Sea?"
"It has just rolled back so as to let the Israelites pass."
"Where are the Israelites?"
"Why they just have gone by."
"Oh, but where are the pursuers?"
"Oh, they'll come along in a minute."

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

"TAKING THE NAME OF SCIENCE IN VAIN" by Horace J. Bridges. Pages 254, price $2.25.

The so-called conflict between science and religion is one that is extremely puzzling to the modern mind. There are so many ways out of that dilemma that there doesn't seem to be much excuse for agonizing over it. To the man who believes wholly and with simple faith in the theological scheme of our fathers, put together before science, in the modern sense, appeared in the world, there is no conflict. Such men are at peace. To the man who has thrown away definitely all faith in a supernatural God, there is no conflict. Such men also are at peace. And to the large group who believe that there is a God who permeates the universe with vitality and spiritual power but who is too vast and omnipotent for the little mind of man to grasp in His entirety there is no conflict. For such men believe that the laws of Nature are the laws of God and that the scientist who seeks to find the Truth by studying the laws of Nature is as much a priest of God as those who seek Truth through thinking and arguing in a vacuum, and more practical!

Such is the faith of Dr. Milliken, whom we heard over the radio last fall. And such is the belief of many modern men who say little about it but whose faith is real and vivid. But there are a large number of people who are still trying to strike a compromise somewhere along the line between certain aspects of theology and science. And they want science to do the compromising. It can't be done. For it is the keystone of the scientific method that, with all due allowances for possible mistakes, the scientist can never deliberately compromise with the truth as he sees it for any purpose whatsoever. That is an attitude that the Christian Protestant Church, with its long record of martyrdom ought to understand.

The book under review, however, is one of a large group by authors who do not seem to understand. It contains many interesting and penetrating observations on current trends of thought and is all the more irritating for that reason. Because the author insists that science should not maintain that man is an animal. He thinks that if people believe that man is an animal all love and hope and courage will die out of the world. He bases his argument on the following syllogism; Man has a soul. Animals have no souls. Therefore man is not an animal. But how does he know that animals have no souls? He says science says so. What science actually does say is: Man is an animal. Man has a soul. Therefore animals probably have souls. And why not? It reminds us of the old saw, "The more I see of some men, the better I like dogs." Anyone who has ever loved a pet knows very well that animals have at least rudimentary souls in this world whatever may be their fate in the next. No one is going to stake his whole life, hope, pride and happiness on any such proposition as that.

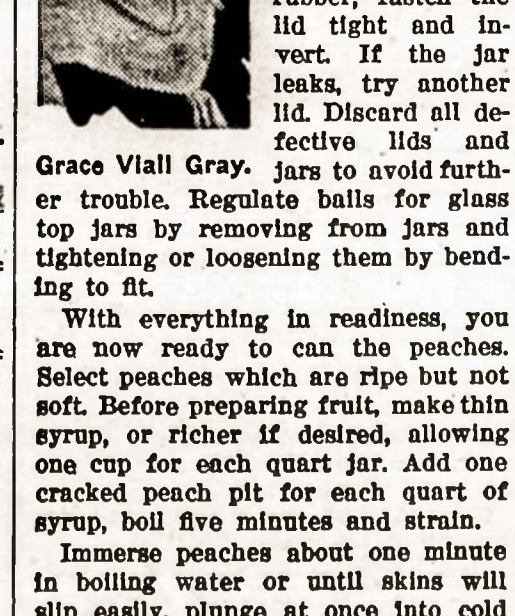

Much of the book is given to an analysis of the effect of the current fad known as Behaviorism on American art. He seems to think that Dr. Watson, principal exponent of Behaviorism, is ruining the art of Eugene O'Neill and Sinclair Lewis. Oh, no! Dr. Watson is priceless as a shocker of the serious minded but he is not that important. He has also a horror of Mr. Mencken and Mr. Darrow. But it would take too long to explain here all the difficulties involved in these prejudices. I will review some of the work of the above mentioned men later and try to explain what it is all about. In the meantime let us put our mind on Fido and Pussy and ask ourselves candidly whether our self-respect will permit us to base our whole philosophy of life and our pride in our manhood upon the proposition that they have no souls.

Mrs. Murphy—"How do you like my new silk dress, son?"
Son—"Fine, mother."
Mrs. Murphy—"And do you know all the silk is furnished by a poor worm?"
Son—"You mean papa, don't you?"

Maxie—"I saw a headline in the paper that said 'Seven Men Killed by Ethyl Gas.' Isn't it terrible, what we're coming to?"
Bobbie—"Yes, she must be a very bad woman. How did she kill them—with poison or a revolver?"

Home Canning Made Easy
By GRACE VIALI GRAY
Household Science Institute.
PEACHES AND PEARS
Before starting to can peaches or any other fruit, collect and examine equipment and put it in good order. Have a liberal supply of new rubbers. Test and fit jars and lids. A sure method of testing is to put water into the jar, put on rubber, fasten the lid tight and invert. If the jar leaks, try another lid. Discard all defective lids and jars to avoid further trouble. Regulate balls for glass top jars by removing from jars and tightening or loosening them by bending to fit.
With everything in readiness, you are now ready to can the peaches. Select peaches which are ripe but not soft. Before preparing fruit, make thin syrup, or richer if desired, allowing one cup for each quart jar. Add one cracked peach pit for each quart of syrup, boil five minutes and strain. Immerse peaches about one minute in boiling water or until skins will slip easily, plunge at once into cold water, peel and stone. Pack in jars at once, placing the halves in overlapping layers, concave sides down with blossom end facing glass. Fill containers with syrup. Process quart jars for 10 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure, pint jars for 6 minutes. Process No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans for 10 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure. Never use more than 5 lbs. pressure for peaches and all other fruits and berries.
Pears may be canned whole or cut in halves. Peel and remove core if cut in halves. When packed whole, leave stems on. Cook from 5 to 10 minutes, according to size, in a medium syrup until barely flexible. This precooking is necessary in order to make a full pack. When packed whole, if pears are small, place in layers, stems up; let the second row fill the spaces between the two stems. Add the hot syrup as the layers are built up. Process 8 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure.

Pears May Be Canned Whole or Cut in Halves.
Many people think the pear is rather bland in flavor so they add additional flavor, as lemon or ginger, to the syrup. Then add a slice of lemon or a small piece of ginger root when packing the jar.

OFFER $5,225 IN PRIZES IN NATIONAL CANNING CONTEST

To ward off a threatened surplus of farm products in many sections and to improve more housewives with the economy and healthfulness of home canned foods, a National Canning Contest is now under way to find the best jar of canned fruit, vegetables and meat in the country. Two hundred and twenty-two cash prizes totaling $5,225 have been hung up by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, including a grand sweepstakes prize of $1,250 for the best jar of canned food entered in the contest. Any woman or girl is eligible to enter the contest, but entries must be in not later than October 1, 1929. Further information on the contest and free jar and entry blanks for sending in entries may be had by writing to Anne Williams, director, National Canning Contest, 625 S. Homan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Kleffer, the Pineapple and the Le Conte pears are desirable for canning.
When canning a larger quantity of pears, they are apt to turn brown very rapidly when exposed to air. This can be avoided by placing the fruit in a dilute salt brine (3 tablespoons salt to 1 gallon water). A good, medium syrup for pears is made by boiling together one quart of sugar with two quarts of water.
If pears are canned in tin plunge immediately into cold water and cool as quickly as possible, otherwise, fruit may turn pink in color.

Mount Hermon

Former students at Mount Hermon returned to the Hill Tuesday to register for the fall term. The 230 new boys who came on Saturday had a week-end in which to become orientated into Hermon ways before the arrival of the "old boys." On Saturday night, directly after supper, the new students all gathered in Camp hall where they were addressed by Elliott Speer, president of the Northfield Schools and Principal Cutler, Mr. Carroll G. Ross, head of Crossley hall, presiding at the meeting. In addition to a piano solo by Carlton W. L'Hommedieu of the music department, there was singing and amateur stunts by some of the students. After the program was concluded the swimming tank in James gymnasium was opened for an hour.

Rev. Lester P. White, the new head of the Bible department, spoke at the morning chapel service on Sunday and at the evening service a number of short talks were given by members of the faculty: Vice-Principal Norton, Dean Elder, Mr. Barrus, head of the science department, Mr. Smith, head of the English department, Mr. Drury, alumni secretary, Mr. Jackson of the mathematics department, Mr. Ross, head of Crossley dormitory and Mr. Rikert, superintendent of the farm.

Examinations in grammar and arithmetic and a psychological test were given to all new boys Monday morning and later in the day, their schedules for classes and work were made out for the term. In the evening, Principal and Mrs. Cutler gave a supper to the new boys.

Schedules for all returning students had been made out in advance so classes began regularly Wednesday.

The enrollment for the fall term is the largest for some time, all available space being used. There are 641 names on the register.

Miss Helen Forsyth of Arlington, formerly secretary to the dean of Mt. Hermon school, is helping out at the office through the opening of school.

Mrs. Ruth Beane of Cambridge who has placed her older son, Arthur, at the school, spent Sunday at Ford cottage. She was accompanied by the three younger children and Miss Louisa remains for two weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rikert.

Among the numerous changes on the Hill this fall are those centering at Overtown: Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Gage are now living permanently at their house on Winchester road, East Northfield, and Howard R. Fuller, Hermon, '24, Wheaton, '29, has charge of Overtown hall where he spent his own student days here. Arthur D. Platt, who taught in the mathematics department last year, returns this fall and announcement is made of his marriage to Miss Irene F. Wardinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wadniski of Lincoln street, Hartford, Conn., on Aug. 17 in Christ Church Cathedral, Hartford. The Platts have been on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and Montreal and will now occupy the apartment used by the Gages on the top floor of Overtown hall.

Axel B. Forslund, director of the gymnasium, will also live at Overtown. Mrs. Babson, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Carroll Rikert, returned last week to her teaching and her home in Pigeon Cove.

Mrs. Richard L. Watson and Richard Junior, have just returned from a visit at Mrs. Watson's sister's home in New Britain, Ct. Mr. Watson is expected to return this week from his trip abroad.

Miss Sallie M. Clough returned on Monday from a summer at Marblehead. She particularly enjoyed the anniversary pageant there and the opportunity to visit the old houses which were opened to guests at the recent celebration.

Miss Mary T. Baker, who was called away from Mt. Hermon early in June on account of her father's ill health, returned to her position in the alumni office the first week in September, having spent the summer at Sunapee, N. H.

Several families on the Hill have enjoyed the White Mts. this summer; the Barrus family, including Thomas Berwick, together with the Mayberry family and J. A. Andrews, made a three day camping trip through the Mountains directly after commencement. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Jackson with guests, took the trip about two weeks after school closed. The D. B. Stevens family enjoyed a two weeks vacation at Mr. Stevens' home farm in Ashland, N. H., and were accompanied on the return trip by his uncle, David Brown, who spent a week with the family. The Jacksons and the Barrus family both made a trip to Keuka Lake, N. Y., during the vacation.

Miss J. Elizabeth Bigelow returned Sunday night from her vacation in New York city and Miss Florence E. Flagg, also of Cottage Four, returned Thursday from Hartford where she was the guest of Miss Louise Griswold.

M. and Mme. Thiebaud spent their vacation at Pigeon Cove, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Ellinwood of Cottage One made a flying trip to Lake Winnepesaukee last week directly after their return from Wisconsin. Mr. Ellinwood will act as school organist and accompanist this year in the absence of Mr. L'Hommedieu who will study in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hatch enjoyed an automobile trip to Ohio going both ways through the Mohawk Valley.

Miss Phoebe Drury is now at her parent's home having resigned her position in the research laboratories of Mass. General hospital to accept a position in the Huntington Memorial hospital, also in Boston. Miss Katherine Drury, who has been a counselor at the Green Mountain camp for two months is at home until the opening of Smith college.

ELECTRICITY-The Modern ServantA Local Installation

THE COMFORTS—
CONVENIENCES—ECONOMIES OF AUTOMATIC HEAT—

A window or door carelessly left open may cause the temperature of the house to drop below the point of comfort. Instantly the thermostat calls for heat and the burner responds automatically, sending warmth through the house until every room is comfortable. Then it stops as quickly as it started. You, however, do not know that this is happening. You are conscious only of a heating comfort never enjoyed before!

When unexpected sickness or some other emergency calls you from a warm bed, the house is warm, because all through the night your automatic heating device, electrically controlled, is the silent sentinel of your heating comfort.

No more getting up at 6 o'clock in a cold house to shake down the furnace, take out ashes, shovel coal, or perhaps rekindle the fire! With automatic heating, electrically controlled, you may sleep as late as you wish, for no matter when you arise, every room will be pleasantly warm, and you will leave the house for your day's work satisfied that your family will be protected against cold weather, drafty floors, and uncertain heat.

In addition to all these comforts, conveniences and economies, automatic heating, electrically controlled, will give you something which money cannot buy—better health! Physicians throughout the country are recommending that homes have an even temperature at all times in order to enjoy good health.
